excerpt from an introduction to the study of christian apologetics the object of this series is to provide for the clergy and laity of the church as statement in convenient form of its doctrine discipline and worship as well as to meet the often expressed desire on the part of examining chaplains for textbooks which they could recommend to candidates for holy orders to satisfy on the one hand the demand of general readers among the clergy and laity the books have been provided with numerous references to larger works making them introductory in their nature and on the other hand to make them valuable for use in canonical examinations they have been arranged according to the canons of the church which deal with that matter it is the earnest hope of the collaborators in this series that the impartial scholarship and unbiased attitude adopted throughout will commend themselves to churchmen of all types and that the books will therefore be accorded a general reception and adopted as far as possible as a norm for canonical examinations the need of such a norm is well known to all and finally a word to examining chaplains about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works in early christian apologetics d h williams offers a comprehensive presentation of christian apologetic literature from the second to the fifth century considering each writer within the intellectual context of the day williams argues that most apologies were not directed at a pagan readership in most cases he says ancient apologetics had a double object to instruct the christian and to persuade weak christians or non christians who were sympathetic to christian claims traditionally scholars of apologetics have focused on the context of persecution in the pre constantinian period by following the links in the intellectual trajectory up though the early fifth century williams prompts deeper reflection on the process of christian self definition in late antiquity taken cumulatively he finds apologetic literature was in fact integral to the formation of the christian identity in the roman world amid a revival of apologetics few things could be more useful than an acquaintance with how christian faith was defended down through the ages say the editors in their introduction to this two part anthology access to both historical and contemporary texts gives us fresh insight into how our fathers in the faith responded to the questions facing them publisher description this historic book may have numerous typos and missing text purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher not indexed not illustrated 1913 edition excerpt chapter iv the lord jesus christ 1 it was necessary in the preceding chapter in dealing with the christian view of revelation to deal with miracle and especially with the miracles of jesus the attack of criticism on the reality of the miracles of jesus was met on the assumption that the reality of jesus himself and the possibility of our having some trustworthy historical knowledge of him were conceded but in recent years there have been repeated assaults on that assumption there is raging at the present moment in germany a conflict as to whether jesus ever did live and some echoes of the clash of battle have been heard even in britain it cannot be denied that the christian church existed in the second century and that during the same century it was making a collection of sacred scriptures it cannot be denied further that the object of religious faith presented in the christian writings and accepted by the christian communities was a divine saviour and lord in whom the living christ experienced as present and active by christian believers was identified with the historical jesus about whose earthly life and ministry four records had been handed down within the christian church itself there has never been any doubt or question that the living christ of faith and the historical jesus of the gospels are one and the same person this identity is now challenged the living christ is dismissed as a subjective illusion the origin of which is variously accounted for and the historical jesus is declared never to have existed objectively but to be equally with the living christ a creation of the religious spirit of man some of the exponents and advocates of this view even go further and offer the christian church as a anthology of apologetics texts with selections from the first century ad through the middle ages includes introductions to each period and author helpful comments in footnotes and discussion questions for each selection
