analyzes both the social and biological evolution of humans from the spoken language to today's institutions a fascinating exploration of human history over the last ten thousand years the origins of human society traces the development of human culture from its origins over 2 million years ago to the emergence of literate civilization in addition to a global coverage of prehistoric life the book pays specific attention to the origins and dispersal of anatomically modern humans the development of symbolic expression the transition from mobile foraging bands to sedentary households early agriculture and its consequences the emergence of social differentiation and hereditary ranking and the prehistoric roots of ancient states and empires the blackwell history of the world series the goal of this ambitious series is to provide an accessible source of knowledge about the entire human past for every curious person in every part of the world it will comprise some two dozen volumes of which some provide synoptic views of the history of particular regions while others consider the world as a whole during a particular period of time the volumes are narrative in form giving balanced attention to social and cultural history in the broadest sense as well as to institutional development and political change each provides a systematic account of a very large subject but they are also both imaginative and interpretative the series is intended to be accessible to the widest possible readership and the accessibility of its volumes is matched by the style of presentation and production this book is a study of modern politics from a socialist and left wing perspective as a collection of essays on political ideas it presents an analysis of the crisis of our times through examining the various crises and problems which define modern society it considers individual political aspects of the contemporary problems of capitalist politics ranging from economic crisis to social crisis from imperialism to the environmental crisis as such it serves to outline a solid argument for a better politics today the politics of socialism and democratic socialism debate rages within the catholic church about the ethics of war and peace but the simple question of why wars begin is too often neglected catholics assumptions about the causes of conflict are almost always drawn uncritically from international relations theory a field dominated by liberalism realism and marxism which is not always consistent with catholic theology in the origins of war matthew a shadle examines several sources to better understand why war happens his retrieval of biblical literature and the teachings of figures from church tradition sets the course for the book shadle then explores the growing awareness of historical consciousness within the catholic tradition the way beliefs and actions are shaped by time place and culture he examines the work of contemporary catholic thinkers like pope john paul ii jacques maritain john courtney murray dorothy day brian hehir and george weigel in the constructive part of the book shadle analyzes the movement within international relations theory known as constructivism which proposes that war is largely governed by a set of socially constructed and cultural influences constructivism shadle claims presents a way of interpreting international politics that is highly amenable to a catholic worldview and can provide a new direction for the christian vocation of peacemaking this volume provides a valuable contribution to our knowledge of eighteenth and nineteenth century intellectual life inside and outside germany prof karl s guthke harvard university this elegant collection of essays ranges across eighteenth and nineteenth century thought covering philosophy science literature and religion in the age of goethe a recognised authority in the field nisbet grapples with the major voices of the enlightenment and gives pride of place to the figures of Lessing, Herder, Goethe, and Schiller. These eleven essays range widely in their compass of thought and intellectual discourse, dealing incisively with themes including the philosophical implications of literature and the relationship between religion, science, and politics. The result is an accomplished reflection on German thought, but also on its rebirth, as Nisbet argues for the relevance of these enlightenment thinkers for the readers of today. The first half of this collection focuses predominantly on eighteenth-century thought, where names like Lessing, Goethe, and Herder, but also Locke and Voltaire, feature. The second has a wider chronological scope, discussing authors such as Winckelmann and Schiller, while branching out from discussions of religion, philosophy, and literature to explore the sciences, issues of biology, early environmentalism, and natural history. Also form part of this volume. The collection concludes with an examination of changing attitudes towards art in the aftermath of the age of Goethe. The essays in this volume have been previously published separately but are brought together in this collection to present Nisbet's widely acclaimed perspectives on this fascinating period of German thought. It will be of interest to scholars and students of the intellectual life of Europe during the enlightenment, while its engaging and lucid style will also appeal to the general reader.

Organized as a companion volume to Karl Rahner's masterwork Foundations of Christian Faith, this book is now again available. It also provides the most useful introduction to his theology as a whole. Each chapter presents a broad commentary on the corresponding chapter of Foundations, beginning with Rahner's method and anthropology and concluding with his theology of the church and eschatology. It includes a separate chapter on Rahner's moral thought, valuable for classroom or individual use. This volume provides questions for discussion, suggestions for further reading, and an extensive glossary of specialized terminology.

100,000 years ago, at least six human species inhabited the earth. Today there is just one: us, Homo sapiens. How did our species succeed in the battle for dominance? Why did our foraging ancestors come together to create cities and kingdoms? How did we come to believe in gods, nations, and human rights? To trust money, books, and laws, and to be enslaved by bureaucracy, timetables, and consumerism? And what will our world be like in the millennia to come? In Sapiens, Dr. Yuval Noah Harari spans the whole of human history, from the very first humans to walk the earth to the radical—and sometimes devastating—breakthroughs of the cognitive, agricultural, and scientific revolutions. Drawing on insights from biology, anthropology, paleontology, and economics, he explores how the currents of history have shaped our human societies, the animals and plants around us, and even our personalities. Have we become happier as history has unfolded? Can we ever free our behaviour from the heritage of our ancestors? And what, if anything, can we do to influence the course of the centuries to come? Bold, wide-ranging and provocative, Sapiens challenges everything we thought we knew about being human, our thoughts, our actions, our power, and our future. Here is a simple reason why Sapiens has risen explosively to the ranks of an international bestseller it tackles the biggest questions of history and of the modern world and it is written in unforgettably vivid language you will love it jared diamond
